Reds Planning Berlin Airport Provocations

Refugees Report Plot Will Involve Phony Kidnapings

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin officials said Tuesday the Communists plan to stage phony East German kidnap incidents at West Berlin's two airports as pretexts for interfering with Western air traffic serving the isolated city.

Mayor Willy Brandt said he will be ready to act energetically against any provocations.

A spokesman for the mayor, Elmar Arendt-Denart, told reporters: "It has been learned through refugees who have reached West Berlin in uniform—East German military forces—that the Soviet side has planned provocations in the two airfields of Tempelhof and Tegel in the next few days."

Roadblocks Set Up
"These provocations are to be staged as protests against the alleged kidnapings through the air corridors." The responsible authorities are prepared to act energetically against such attempts to make a disturbance.

While Arendt-Denart spoke Communist East Berlin police were setting up roadblocks on every street leading to the wall dividing Berlin.

The Reds apparently were determined to put an end to a series of daring escapes in which East Berliners crashed trucks through the wall to reach the West.

West Berlin officials said the Communist plot involving the airport was disclosed by several civilian refugees and four men who defected from East German military forces.

Pretext For Interference
Three air corridors are the only routes by which it is possible to travel between West Berlin and the outside world without passing through Communist police checks. The Communists, irritated by safe passage of refugees thus to West Germany, have been threatening to put an end to such flights.

According to the spokesman, the Communist plans call for mixing among the refugees at the airports various people with Red orders to throw themselves to the ground and shout, "I don't want to be kidnapped."

Such incidents, if they occur, could serve the Communist East German regime with a pretext to launch some sort of interference with Western air traffic over its territory between West Germany and West Berlin.

British Pacifist Leader Jailed

LONDON (AP)—Earl Bertrand Russell, 89, philosopher-pacifist, went to jail Tuesday night, starting a seven-day sentence for refusing to keep the peace.

Also sentenced to serve a week was his wife, Lady Russell, 61—the former Miss Edith Finch, an American writer.

She stood beside the slender, white-haired earl in Bow Street Magistrates Court, and joined him in refusing to abandon support of a public demonstration next Sunday against nuclear bombs.

Police charged that Earl and Lady Russell, and 35 others who appeared in court, by pamphlets and speeches, incited people to commit a breach of the peace.

Three of the followers were sentenced to two months, 27 to one month and five were released on their promise to cease inciting disorderly conduct.

French Plane Crashes Near Rabat; 77 Die

Jetliner En Route From Paris Falls Into Ravine, Burns

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — An Air France Caravelle jetliner en route from Paris crashed and burned in a ravine near here Tuesday night, killing all 77 persons aboard, including a number of French embassy staff members.

French, Moroccan, Australian, and United Arab Republic nationals were listed among the 71 passengers.

The passenger list also contained some Russian or Czech-sounding names, but there appeared to be no Americans aboard.

The passengers included 64 adults, six children, and a baby. The twin jet-plane, on a flight from Paris to Rabat, carried a crew of six.

The Caravelle smashed up in a ravine between two villages about a mile from Rabat and burned furiously. Firemen and volunteers fought the flames for half an hour and said there was no sign of life in the wreckage.

It was the third major air disaster this month, following the weekend crash of an American charter airliner at Shannon Airport, Ireland in which 83 died, and the crash of a TWA liner near Chicago which killed 78 persons.

It was Morocco's second serious crash this year. Seventy-two died when a Soviet-built Czech airliner crashed near Casablanca in July.

Many of the passengers were staff members of the French Embassy in the Moroccan capital, including Edouard Laurent, economic counselor of the embassy.

The plane had been scheduled to land at Rabat's airport at 9 p.m. (4 p.m. EDT). French Ambassador Roger Seydoux was waiting there to greet the embassy personnel. When informed of the crash, he sped to the scene, which is between the villages of Douar Doum and Douar Dbagh.

Cameron Again Comes Alive

CAMERON, La. (AP) — The long, muddy road to Cameron—paths revisited for the second time in four years—brought thousands back to their Louisiana coastal homeland Tuesday.

The storekeepers, the trappers, the fishermen—all started back on the 30-mile journey from refugee centers at Lake Charles. They came back, cautious and careful, to see what Hurricane Carla had visited on Cameron.

Many found their homes undamaged—not totally unexpected since Cameron escaped the full force of Carla's ravages. But some were surprised.

Many of these people had made an exodus from Cameron in 1957 when Hurricane Audrey's 150-mile-an-hour winds all but devastated the southwest Louisiana marsh country and killed 590.

Mrs. Tom Steed, whose husband operates a Cameron ice house, tipped through her home, unscathed by Carla's winds.

"Everything was fine," she said. "I even turned on the air conditioner and it was all right. Sure, I'm going to stay."

Although Cameron apparently escaped a major disaster, there were many reminders of Carla's visitation.

Dead snakes, muskrats, birds—all forms of wildlife that abound in the marshlands—cluttered the roadways. There was a tremendous cleanup job in the offing.

Tornado Deals Galveston Lethal Blow

The staggering backlash of hurricane Carla spawned a lethal, pre-dawn tornado in Galveston, Tex., yesterday causing extensive damage, death and injury. Six persons were killed and at least 100 homes leveled as tornadic winds cut a swath two blocks wide and 20 long on the north side of Galveston Island. Another tornado killed six at Hodge, La. (AP Photofax)

Discoverer 30 Attains Orbit In Capsule Test

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Discoverer XXX blasted into polar orbit Tuesday in an Air Force attempt to score a space "bullseye" that would assure recovery of its gold-plated capsule.

The 81-foot rocket shot aloft on a tower of flame from this West Coast space and missile base, disappearing almost immediately into a heavy overcast. Two hours later, the Air Force announced tracking stations in Alaska and Hawaii confirmed the 25-foot satellite, loaded with top-secret scientific gear, was in orbit.

A specific goal of Tuesday's shot was to improve control as the satellite whirled around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour, "thus increasing the accuracy of the impact prediction for the re-entry capsule."

If all goes well, the Air Force said the capsule would be "ejected from orbit in the normal area of recovery near Hawaii."

The Air Force called Discoverer 30 "one of the best performing so far in the series"—which has seen 20 satellites orbit.

It takes the Discoverer 92.4 minutes to circle the earth. The satellite comes within 154 miles at its closest point, and is 345 miles at its most distant.

Recovery, either by snare-trailing aircraft or surface ships and skin divers, could be tried from one to four days after launch and successful orbit.

Russia Sets Off Atom Blast No. 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Russia Tuesday set off the seventh nuclear blast in its current series—a fallout-spawning device equal to the force of several million tons of TNT.

Like the previous Soviet shots, the explosion was detonated in the air where it created radioactive debris that will filter down around the world.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast was set off in the arctic near Novaya Zemla, where Russia exploded another "several megaton" device Sunday.

Soviet Ruling Rejected By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States declared Tuesday it will hold the Soviet Union responsible for any action taken by the Communist East German regime which violates the "four-power" status of the city of Berlin.

The statement amounted to a rejection of a Soviet declaration Monday that U.S., British and French citizens as well as others wishing to enter East Berlin or East Germany would have to deal with East German authorities.

It was not clear whether the Soviet Union would try to apply this rule to Allied officials and military personnel in Berlin or only to private citizens. Travel by private citizens across East Germany to Berlin is already controlled by the East German authorities. The projected new Soviet policy presumably would apply the same system to East Berlin.

Kennedy School Aid Plans Dealt Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate spurned a plea by President Kennedy Tuesday that it ease the way for revival of his aid-to-education program next year.

After a sharp skirmish marked by the threat of a filibuster, the Senate voted two-year extensions of the impacted areas school aid program and the National Defense Education Act.

The action, following a similar step taken by the House, means there is less chance of reviving the administration's hope for passage of a general aid-to-education program before 1963.

The key Senate vote was on a move by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to limit the impacted areas bill to one year, as urged by Kennedy. This would have given the administration another chance next year to use this popular bill as a lure for action on the rest of the program.

The Morse amendment was defeated by a vote of 45-40. The Senate then rejected by a voice vote National Defense Education Act to one year.

Finally it voted 80-7 to adopt a proposal by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., providing for a two-year extension of both the impacted areas and the defense education programs.

The House voted two-year extensions of the two programs after its Rules Committee bottled up most of Kennedy's other aid-to-education measures. The President and some Democratic senators wanted the extension limited to one year, so that the whole program could be reconsidered early in 1962.

"The Democrats in the Senate have to decide whether they are going to back up the President or pull the rug from under him as the House of Representatives did," Morse said.

Youth Admits Church Deacon "Thrill Killing"

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Joseph R. Rhodes, 19, held on two armed robbery charges, has admitted a "thrill killing" of a church deacon and the wounding of three other persons in separate incidents, authorities said Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph Koch said Rhodes, who is from East St. Louis, Ill., signed a statement admitting the crimes.

Rhodes, a Negro, was discharged from the Army a few months ago.

"It was just for an act of violence—just for the thrills," Koch quoted him as saying of the June 14 fatal shooting of William Rogers, 50, a Negro, deacon of St. Matthew Baptist church in East St. Louis.

"It could have been anybody who would have come along," Koch quoted Rhodes. "I wanted to kill one person that day."

Koch said Rhodes told of firing four shots at a man in the cab of a locomotive in the rail yards at East St. Louis July 14 because of an impulse.

Ray Lauf, 22, a fireman for the Alton & Southern Railroad, was shot once in the head and twice in the right shoulder from close range. He since has recovered.

Rhodes also admitted, the deputy said, stabbing Edwin Hermann, 49, on an East St. Louis street July 22; and wounding Henry Kappel, 40, during a holdup at a bar in East St. Louis.

Strike At Denver Missile Site Ends

DENVER (UPI) —The first major missile site strike since President Kennedy established his Missile Site Labor Relations Commission ended Tuesday.

A dispute between a Texas contractor and union craftsmen on a Titan missile site near here went to the missile site commission, and the four-day work stoppage it spawned ended Tuesday morning.

Reuther Hopes For GM Strike End Thursday

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union moved on two fronts Tuesday towards settlement of the strike that has idled some 250,000 of GM's hourly workers. Progress was slow.

The strike, which started Monday, shut down more than 90 GM plants and it is spreading to other plants.

At GM's nerve center in Detroit, UAW President Walter P. Reuther bargained through the day with the company in efforts to reach agreement by Thursday at the national level on working conditions in 129 plants.

At the same time the company's plant managers negotiated with local union committees on thousands of demands also involving working conditions. Settlements have been made at some 40 plants.

Reuther said the union was shooting for a final settlement before the union's 280-member GM Council meets here Thursday afternoon. It will be up to the council to decide whether to reject the proposed settlement or recommend acceptance by the union's 325,000 members at GM.

GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton appeared less optimistic than Reuther that a quick settlement was in sight.

"I'm a bit superstitious," he told reporters. "If I saw a black cat I'd run like heck. You get one key thing out of the way, then you have three others to solve."

The UAW-GM Council could withdraw strike authority from locals which have not settled their demands and order all members back to work. But there still would remain the possibility of wildcat strikes closing down key plants.

The union said that if the council recommends acceptance, ratification meetings would follow quickly in the 71 cities where GM has factories.

An agreement Monday night on relief time for assembly line workers cleared the way for settlement of other issues.

Seaton said the question of relief time "was magnified out of proportion." But he acknowledged that the agreement to spell out in the national contract for the first time that assembly line workers be allowed 24 minutes of relief each shift would help settle differences.

Walker, senior National Space Agency (NASA) test pilot, complained during the flight of mounting mechanical trouble. Tuesday flew the X15 rocket plane to a new speed record of 3,645 miles an hour.

Walker, 40, was to have flown 3,700 m.p.h., but a warning light in his cockpit caused him momentarily to cut his throttle by 50 per cent. But the veteran flyer kicked the throttle to full power when the light remained on—indicating fuel was reaching the engine all right.

The record speed came at an altitude of 110,000 feet and surpassed the old mark of 3,603 set in the same plane by Maj. Robert White on June 23. The X15 was launched over Beatty, Nev., from a B52 bomber flying at 45,000 feet.

X15 Sets Record As Pilot Flies 'By Guess, By Gosh'

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI)—Pilot Joe Walker, flying "by guess and by gosh" because of mounting mechanical trouble, Tuesday flew the X15 rocket plane to a new speed record of 3,645 miles an hour.

Walker, 40, was to have flown 3,700 m.p.h., but a warning light in his cockpit caused him momentarily to cut his throttle by 50 per cent. But the veteran flyer kicked the throttle to full power when the light remained on—indicating fuel was reaching the engine all right.

Winds Carve Path Of Death In Galveston

At Least Six Die When Twister Hits Louisiana Village

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The dying winds of Hurricane Carla generated tornadoes Tuesday that killed at least 12 persons in Texas and Louisiana.

Six persons were killed when tornadic winds cut a swath two blocks wide and 20 long on the north side of Galveston Island. At least 100 homes were leveled.

Another tornado struck in the Hodge community near Jonesboro, La., killing at least six persons. An undetermined number of persons were missing. Gas mains were ruptured and 25 homes demolished.

The tornado deaths brought the toll of the hurricane to at least 17 persons.

Carla herself struggled toward Oklahoma. She reached Waco, Tex., 220 miles from where she hit the coast at Matagorda Bay Monday.

Behind her lay a coastline riddled by destruction from Cameron, La., to Corpus Christi. The loss could approach $200 million.

Father And Son Perish
The hurricane snuffed out the lives of a father and son at the little town of Olivia as she leveled her direct blow at nearby Port Lavaca. They were Jose Salinas, 55, and Domingo Salinas, 17.

Others who died were a 4-week-old baby girl at Kaplan, La., and Able D. Threenton, 58, of Houston who was electrocuted when he stepped on a broken electric line.

Clarence West, 37, a businessman, drowned when he tried to wade across an inundated causeway from Galveston Island.

His business partner, V. D. Packer, 43, of Houston, made it. Packer said he and West had decided to try to reach the mainland Monday night and were swimming shoulder to shoulder when the current sucked West under. The 50-mile freeway linking Galveston with Houston had been flooded by tideswaters since late Sunday.

Seawater two to three feet deep covered the damaged Galveston area. Some homes had been flipped over; the roofs and walls of others were peeled off.

Brad Messer, executive editor of the News and Tribune, said it might take a week to search the rubble.

Port O'Connor Levelled
The hurricane stood off Monday and pounded the Texas-Louisiana coastline like a great armada for six hours before she slashed across Matagorda Island and leveled the little town of Port O'Connor. Its 1,000 inhabitants hours before had joined a mass exodus which may have reached half a million persons, Associated Press staff writer Ronnie Thompson said.

Carla may have run up the biggest single insurance loss in the nation's history in the opinion of Darby Hammond, Dallas executive director of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service.

Hammond said it would take 4,000 to 5,000 claim adjusters to appraise property damage reaching from Brownsville, Tex., to New Orleans.

A windstorm in the northeast part of the nation in November, 1950 is credited by the Insurance Information Institute with the heaviest insurance losses. Estimated payments reached $273 million.

Typhoon Leaves 100 Dead On Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Typhoon Pamela slashed across northern Formosa Tuesday killing 100 persons and causing immense property damage before hitting the Communist-held China mainland.

Police reported 100 confirmed dead following reports from Yilan on the northeast coast of Formosa which bore the full brunt of the 135-mile-per-hour winds. Police said 31 persons were missing and 913 injured.

Many thousands of persons were left homeless—13,415 in Taipei alone. Police reported 1,273 houses collapsed and 2,547 badly damaged.

Hurricane Esther Spotted In Atlantic

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The season's fifth hurricane was spotted by weather planes Tuesday about 1,400 miles east of Puerto Rico.

Hurricane Esther, with winds of 130 miles an hour, "is already dangerous," the Weather Bureau reported.

Cuba Opens New Attack Against Catholic Church

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government has launched a fresh attack against the Roman Catholic Church. It accused priests and nuns of plotting to overthrow the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro and claimed the clergy was acting as go-between for U.S. intelligence.

The attack was made Tuesday in a communique by the Interior Ministry. Denunciations by newspaper, radio and groups of Castro supporters in the wake of Sunday night's anti-Communist demonstrations outside a church fore-shadowed the government outburst.

The communique claimed Catholic groups were smuggling in guns and ammunition in a priest-led plot to set off provincial uprisings along with a campaign of terror and sabotage.

"Clerical Falangist groups have received in the last few weeks shipments of explosives and arms to promote uprisings in Pinar del Rio, Las Villas and Oriente provinces," the government declared. "It is well-known," the government said, "that churches and convents are being used to hide fugitives from revolutionary justice, to hold conspiratorial meetings and even hide dynamite."

The communique singled out Bishop Eduardo Boza Masvidal of the Havana archdiocese for alleged "counterrevolutionary activities" and called Father Francisco Viera a main contact between subversives in Cuba and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The bishop was charged with instigating Sunday's demonstration outside the Church of Charity in downtown Havana. Disorders flared after 4,000 men, women and children gathered for a religious procession.

Many of the worshipers marched toward the presidential palace shouting "Cuba yes, Russia no," and clashed with police and Castro supporters.

94 In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The temperature climbed to a sizzling 94 degrees in New York City Tuesday afternoon, breaking a 66-year-old record for this date.

Two Rescued, One Missing In Boat Mishap

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP) —

Two Richmond, Va., men who clung to the side of their capsized boat for 15 hours through the night were rescued Tuesday near the mouth of the Potomac River. A third man who was pitched outboard craft overturned slipped from the capsized boat before the rescue and was feared lost.

The two who were rescued were brought to St. Mary's Hospital here and admitted for observation. They were identified by a hospital spokesman as William Dunn, 41 and George Macmillan, 39.

The hospital described both men as being in good condition, but suffering from exposure suffered in the night-long ordeal.

The name of their companion was not disclosed.

The boat capsized about 6 p.m. Monday, a Coast Guard spokesman said. Dunn and Macmillan were picked from the water about 9 a.m. Tuesday by the crew of a fishing boat, which took them to the Coast Guard station at Point Lookout.

Coast Guard officials at Baltimore said the name of the missing man was being withheld pending the notification of the next of kin.

Welfare May Cost State $63,430,789

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's welfare budget may cost $63,430,789 next year, officials indicated Tuesday.

State Department of Welfare officials predicted an increase of 26,033 cases in six categories of assistance during fiscal 1963. Aid to dependent children is expected to account for much of the increase in case load and expenditures.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, state welfare director, said about half the expected case load increase could be attributed to a national administration plan to extend benefits to children of unemployed fathers. Waxter based the remainder of the increase estimates on the basis of experiences over the last two years.

The department's proposed spending program for the next fiscal period would include $25,278,735 in federal aid, and represents a total increase of 34.5 per cent over the $47.2 million now appropriated for the agency.

JFK's Pruning Speeds Decisions In Cold War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's scrapping of excess boards and committees has sharpened the nation's ability to make cold war decisions quickly, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has told Congress.

Efforts of the administration to get rid of friction, delays, jealousies and "hidden vetoes" in the executive branch were described by Rusk at a closed session of the Senate National Policy Machinery subcommittee last month. The testimony was made public Tuesday.

Rusk was quizzed by Chairman

Dominicans, Police Clash

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Thousands of Dominicans clashed with police Tuesday in what appeared to be an unarmed uprising against the regime left behind by slain dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo. Four persons were killed by gunfire and scores injured in the violence timed with the arrival of an inspection commission from the Organization of American States.

The OAS team, including de Lesseps S. Morrison, U.S. ambassador to the CAS and former mayor of New Orleans, arrived two hours after the gunfire broke out, and a new wave of demonstrations ensued.

The shooting was blamed by demonstrators on plainclothes government agents.

Police were stoned and bombarded with missiles thrown from rooftops.

The OAS caravan into the city was chased about a mile by demonstrators.

Woman Slain; Neighbor Held

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police held a 28-year-old man for questioning Tuesday in the early morning slaying of a woman who was shot twice at a Baltimore apartment house.

The victim was Mrs. Dorothy Clifford, 28-year-old mother of five children. She died of two bullet wounds in the stomach.

Her body was found on a stair landing, where police said she apparently had crawled mortally wounded from a bedroom.

Held for questioning was a man who lived opposite Mrs. Clifford in the building.

Police said the woman was estranged from her husband, John H. Clifford, 53, of Mount Morris, Pa. The woman's children, ranging in age from 2 to 11, live with the father, officers said.

Former W. Va. Gov. Meadows Dies At Age 57

CLIFTON FORGE, Va. (AP) — Clarence W. Meadows, governor of West Virginia from 1945 to 1949, died in a hospital here early Tuesday. He was 57.

Meadows was admitted to the hospital last month after suffering a heart attack while visiting his father-in-law. Hospital authorities said the heart condition was complicated by kidney trouble.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. (EST) Wednesday at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church with burial in Mountain View Cemetery here.

A native of Beckley, W.Va., Meadows was married to the former Nancy Massie of Clifton Forge. He had been a frequent visitor here, even during his term as governor, and maintained business interests in the area even after moving to Florida about six years ago.

He attended Georgia Military Academy and Washington and Lee University and received his law degree from the University of Alabama in 1927.

He began his law practice in Beckley in 1927 and three years later was elected to the West Virginia House of Delegates for a two-year term.

In 1933 he was named Raleigh County (Beckley) prosecutor and served in that position until elected West Virginia attorney general in 1936. He was re-elected in 1940 but resigned in May 1942 to accept appointment as judge of West Virginia's 10th Judicial Circuit to fill an unexpired term. He was elected to the judgeship in November of that year.

He was elected governor in 1944. In the Democratic primary that year he had received twice as many votes as the combined total of his three opponents.

During the mid-1950s Meadows moved to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and was admitted to the Florida bar in 1957. He became active in Democratic politics in Broward County, which includes Ft. Lauderdale, and was campaign manager for former Sen. Claude Pepper in the 1958 Democratic primary.

Apple Harvest In Full Swing

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Picking of apples in the Hancock area is expected to get into full swing at the end of this week starting with Grimes, according to the Crop Reporting Service.

The harvest of Jonathans will get underway early next week, with Red Delicious expected a few days later. Picking of fall apples was still on a limited scale last week, and the peach harvest was nearly complete.

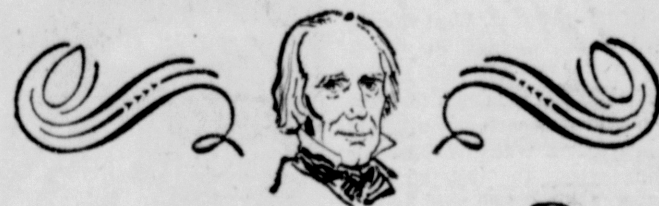

Silo filling, nymaking, fall plowing, and harvesting of tobacco, potatoes and remaining vegetable crops dominated the activity last week.

Most of the corn crop reached the dent stage by the end of the week and was maturing at about the same speed as last year. Some 10 to 15 per cent of the crop was mature, but moisture content was running high and very little picking was attempted, the service said.

Soybeans were making rapid progress with 75 to 80 per cent of the crop podded, and 8 to 10 per cent yellowed by the end of the week.

Check On City's Water System Is Planned Soon

Field work for a water waste survey here will be started later this month. Water Commissioner G. Ray Light announced yesterday.

The Pitometer Associates, engineers of New York, will make the survey which was authorized by the Mayor and Council July 17. Cost will be $9,800.

E. Shaw Cole, president of the firm, informed Light that the engineer who will be assigned locally is conducting a similar survey at Bellefonte, Pa. In the meantime, Cole said, the city Water Department should construct at least two shelter boxes which will be needed for the company's instruments.

Hiring of the Pitometer firm is one result of a city campaign to conserve water through the uncovering and plugging of leaks in the water lines leading from the Lake Gordon water plant to the city and within the city.

The survey here will measure local consumption and test gravity supply lines. The water system will be divided into districts and a measurement made of the flow into each district. Investigation will be made in each district to find excessive leaks and locating main leaks underground.

Large consumers will be checked to determine unauthorized use of unmetered water and all meters larger than three inches will be tested during the survey.

The Pitometer firm then will submit a report to the Water Department on its findings.

Hearing Today In Local Theft

Four local persons are being detained in City Jail today in connection with a breaking and entering of a North Mechanic Street home.

Capt. Det. James E. Van and Det. Harry Isner said the four have been implicated in the entry of the home of Paul Myers, 157 North Mechanic Street.

They will be given a hearing today in Trial Magistrate Court. Myers informed Capt. Van yesterday that someone had stolen a money box containing a small amount of money and other items from his residence while he and his wife were asleep.

Dets. Royce Clayton and Harold Gibson apprehended two youths as they were counting the money along the B&O Railroad tracks on the West Side.

Monday afternoon two men were taken in custody in connection with the case after one of the youths allegedly implicated them. Capt. Van said all four will be charged in the case.

Action on the appointment of a new city comptroller might be taken by the Mayor and Council next Monday.

Members of council met with the two eligible candidates for personal interviews Monday following the regular council session. Interviewed were Albert J. Lawler of Fayette Street, this city; and Paul E. Rodecap of Waverly, Ohio.

There was no official comment from any city source concerning the outcome of the interview or what course Monday's action will take.

Gibson officially retired as comptroller (auditor) last month after approximately 25 years' service with the city. Council hired him to serve as comptroller on a contract basis until such time as a new comptroller was named and is able to assume full duties of the office.

New Phone System Set

A new telephone system will be installed at the Allegany County Health Department in the Union Street County Building.

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, acting health officer, wrote the county commissioners that the health agency had seven main telephones and 12 extensions.

Dr. Cameron said this type phone system was not efficient and persons who look in the phone book for the health department units found a number of listings.

By the time the persons called and explained their business it consumed time and caused confusion.

The C&P Telephone Company will install a system similar to the one in the county commissioners' office whereby there will be one number and a dial system whereby incoming calls can be routed quickly to the health unit office affected.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Stomach And Abdomen, Begone!

Very few exercises require strenuous movement.

One of the very finest is walking... brisk walking. You should set aside at least 15 minutes a day for a good walk... preferably in the morning before you go to work, or before you get too busy with things at home. Once a week try to walk for a full hour. It's good for the figure, for relaxing tensions, for keeping the sparkle in your eyes and your complexion clear.

If you have special spots that beg for recontouring—such as the stomach and abdomen—exercise is the best bet. Begin by doing each exercise three times, and increase each day until you reach at least ten or twelve times. Expect to tire, but never let yourself become exhausted.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Double
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♦

When you realize that the enemy has an important message to get through, that is the time to jam their communications, as witness today's hand.

South opened the bidding in the third seat with one spade and West quite properly made a take-out double. A mere overall of two hearts would not do justice to the hand, and might even result in failure to reach the best contract.

North's preemptive raise to four spades was well chosen. Despite partner's opening bid the chances were that his side's defensive strength would not be very formidable. The best tactics seemed to be to place the pressure upon the adversaries to make the correct guess. East could take no action and West was up against it. He felt he was being talked out of something, but any bid by him might prove disastrous.

It will be noted that, as the cards lay, East and West could have made five diamonds but it would have required master minding of the first order to get there in the face of the barricade.

The king of diamonds was opened. When the dummy appeared with a singleton, West switched to the queen of hearts. Declarer won the trick in his hand with the ace and ruffed out his other diamond. The trumps were drawn in three rounds and the king of hearts cashed as East showed out. A third heart now put West back in. He led the jack of hearts and declarer discarded the three of clubs and the enemy had no way to score another trick. The lead of a red card would permit a ruff and discard and a club return would be into South's major tenace.

In all, declarer lost two hearts and a diamond.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — When I last saw Burt Lancaster he was very high on producing and starring in the motion picture version of Irving Stone's "The Agony and the Ecstasy," based on the life of Michelangelo.

Now, Burt has decided he does not want to take two years out of his life to produce this movie, although he says he would like very much to star in it with some other producer at the helm.

William Gordon, former Columbia public relations executive, went all the way to Rome to get approval of the Catholic Church on the Stone story. Now that Burt has decided against producing it, agent Irving Lazar is working on another deal for another producer — one who will please Burt.

An episode in "How the West Was Won" which should mean money at the boxoffice, is one starring Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Red Skelton. Can you imagine a segment with these three together?

Well, this is the plan: In November Sol Siegel hopes to bring them together in Nogales, Ariz., in one big moment, and you can be sure there will be plenty of comedy. Also, I hope, a song or two.

I always try to tell both sides of an argument, so here is the Martin Poll-Martin Melcher version of Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn's threat to obtain a restraining order if they attempted to use the word "raffles" in their stage play and motion picture.

"When we purchased the rights to 'raffles,' we acquired all the hundreds of raffles stories with the exception of the four raffles stories owned by Mrs. Goldwyn. We have the right to use the character, raffles, and the right for him to be called raffles, but we never intended to use the title. Our agreement gives us the right to say 'adapted or based upon the raffles character.'"

This will all have to be settled with Frances—(Mrs. Goldwyn), I am not an arbiter.

Back in Hollywood, Jan Clayton told me what a lift it was to her ego to be received with such acclaim in Washington, D.C., in the revival of "Carousel" with John Raitt. "John and I were reunited after 16 years—and his voice is more beautiful than ever."

I asked Jan about her long-time boyfriend, talented pianist George Greeley. "He's been in Australia for a month," she said, "I'll certainly be glad to see him when he returns."

It's only a month ago that she obtained her divorce from Bob Lerner so it would be a year before Jan could marry George, anyway. Still thrilled about her reception in Washington, she told me, "I had my birthday while there and it was inspiring to hear the 5,000 people in the amphitheater sing 'happy birthday' to me."

Talked with Maurice Chevalier, in London, on his 73rd birthday which was Monday and he was surprised and delighted over the 500 telegrams he had received from all over the world and for the 18 birthday cakes sent from friends in London, Paris and New York. Maurice talked with me from the set of "The Castaways" which he's making for Walt Disney and the connection was so good he might have been in the same room.

The perennially romantic Frenchman said, "Can you be-

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been staring at this piece of paper for 30 minutes trying to figure out how to put my problem into words. I decided the logical place to start was at the beginning, so I began to review my troubles as objectively as possible. To my surprise, the incidents which lead up to the present mess fell into a pattern which, for the first time, made some sense.

Now that I've thought things through I see the solution clearly. So you see, Ann Landers, you help people by just being around. Maybe this letter isn't worth mailing but since I've finished it and the envelope is stamped I'm going to send it. — PROBLEM SOLVED

DEAR SOLVED: I'll never know how many readers start to write and then find the solution in the telling. Usually the letter goes into the waste-basket. I'm delighted you mailed yours. Thanks for the day-brightener.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work with a delightful young woman. She is about 25, attractive and thoughtful. Everyone in the office loves her. Although I'm old enough to be her mother we are more like girl friends which of course is flattering to me.

Several months ago she married a handsome man. She seemed very much in love with him and beamed when she showed us her rings. Somehow I feel that he lacks the warm human qualities which are important in a marriage.

Twice in the last few months she has come to work with a black eye and once with a swollen lip. She said she fell down the stairs, bumped into a cupboard etc., etc. Her disposition is no longer sunny. She seems depressed. Everyone has noticed a marked change. I suspect her husband is the cause of her unhappiness. I want to help her. What can I do? — A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Your silence during these difficult times is undoubtedly very much appreciated. She'll open up only if she feels comfortable about it. Until then, say nothing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet your readers are sick of hearing complaints from women about "my husband's mother." Well, this letter is going to be different. My husband's mother hasn't bothered me in years. She died in 1954. It's his father I can't stand. Since he moved into this same apartment building there is no such thing as privacy. He has a key to our front door and barges in at any hour of the day or night. He has dinner here regularly and often brings some stumple-bum or trampy bar-fly. He uses foul language in front of our children and slips them money behind our backs.

I could write a book but I think you have the picture. My husband says he can't tell his dad to stay away. Besides, he points out, the rent here is very reasonable and we are close to everything. What's the answer? — GETTING CRAZY

DEAR GETTING: You're close to everything all right — including a nervous collapse. Even if you could live in the building free, it would be too blamed expensive in terms of your mental health.

The answer is to move. Once you are in another building you can establish new house rules. It could be a fresh beginning and a new way of life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAN'T CONTROL HIM: Your boy friend has a one-track mind and from your description the traffic is very light. Drop him and find a young man whose ideas are more like yours.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

'Money Miner' Says His Job Takes Drive

By JOSEPH H. CARTER

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Virgil Hougland is a money miner. His diggings are the ground around Tulsa's parking meters.

"You can call me 'King of the Parking Meters,'" said Hougland, a 34-year-old ex-convict who served 13 months in San Quentin for writing bad checks.

But there's nothing illegal about his mining activities. In fact, he spends most of his take buying Bibles "for the boys in prison."

Hougland claws around in the grass with a trowel and recovers change that motorists drop while trying to feed the meter. Part of his purpose, he said, is to make the meters look neat.

Besides that and helping the Lord, as he puts it, Hougland said the work:

- Puts coins back in circulation.
- Gives city prisoners something to do clearing up his grass piles.
- The miner has other, diversified activities. He watches closely for cigarette packs where the change (two pennies) has not been removed from the wrapper.
- Discarded bottles in alleys also provide Hougland with an income. He saves them until winter, then cashes them in when it's too cold for meter money panning.
- The idea of checking around meters struck Hougland once when he was broke and dejected. Lazing on a parking meter, he glanced downward and saw a dime.
- His first 50 cents was invested in a trowel and the first 33 days netted him $185 in pennies, nickels and dimes.
- Although Hougland respects the possibilities of empty bottles and cigarette wrapper pennies, money mining catches his fancy.
- Most of his work has been in downtown Tulsa. He plans to expand to the suburban shopping centers. But a more lucrative vein remains untouched, he said—storm sewer drains.
- By removing the metal grating, he explained, he will dip a shovel into the trap below and pick out all the coins the street washers float away.
- "You just have to have drive and initiative," he said. "This is free enterprise."

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 54 Withdrawal of many Regular Army units from the Western frontiers for service in the Secession War was productive of renewed outbreaks of Indians. It also loosened lots of animals to run wild—including camels. Yes, camels, the Asian and African species with the built-in water-storage tank.

A lot of the Western country into which the Army pushed in the Forties and Fifties had the aspects of Saharan sand wasteland. In fact, early maps showed a "Great Western Desert," running from Texas up through Utah. Eventually the War Department and Congress were sold on the idea of using camels, of which they had knowledge from the Bible, in establishing caravan routes across the region. The then Secretary of War Jefferson Davis arranged with the State Department and the Navy Department for camels to be bought and carried over.

Seventy-six of the beasts were obtained in Middle Eastern ports. One pack of 36 was delivered at Indianola, Tex., via the Navy storeship Supply, by Lieut. D. D. Porter—a name that was to become famous in the Secession War. From Indianola, the 26 were walked to Fort Defiance, N. M., for experimental Army transport work. Sergeants, corporals and privates did not get along with the camels, or vice versa. When regiments were called to North vs. South war duty in 1861, you can guess what was left behind. Some were sold to a mining company, some simply abandoned. Meanwhile, his interest aroused by the Army experiment, a San Francisco merchant imported 45 camels from Siberia for delivery service in mining camps.

Years after the war the Western character known as "California Joe" Miller told of "camelce," the result of matings of camels with native elk. Other desert habitues related tall tales of strange hump-backed animals that appeared like Biblical ghosts in the West.

Do You Suffer From Sick, Throbbing Migraine Headaches?

New Medical Discovery Never Before Available
Now Released To Public. No Prescription Needed.

Today, science has announced a doctor's new formula which has been especially developed to relieve both the throbbing pain and sickish feeling of migraine-type headaches. Tests conducted by a practicing New York physician showed that in patient after patient—pain-relief and comfort were obtained in minutes. And all without the use of narcotics, codeine or ergot remedies which may upset the stomach and so further aggravate the condition.

This remarkable new formula is called Duplexin®. It is the first headache discovery in the history of medicine with this exclusive formula. (A unique 2-layer pink and white tablet). It relieves both headache pain and a sick, upset stomach with this exclusive formula.

Here are the medical facts why Duplexin is safer, faster, more effective—why it's unlike the usual headache remedies. Only Duplexin unites powerful doctor-approved pain relievers with this special stomach-soothing antacid. In seconds, Duplexin does what no aspirin or buffered aspirin can ever do. It contains exclusive, hospital-tested medications not found in any alkalizer or sedative. Duplexin's white layer concentrates on relieving pain faster. Throbbing pain relieved in minutes. Its pink layer relieves that sickish feeling and protects your stomach as it keeps on speeding relief.

Duplexin also calms nervous stress (which so often causes migraine) and helps relieve depression. Taken at the first sign of an attack, Duplexin actually helps prevent those migraine pains. Ask for Duplexin Tablets at any drugstore. Now available without prescription.

Medical Science Marches Onward

At Yale University a meeting of psychologists heard some experimenters report on work with rats to see how people, some day, may get some help from their brains in regulating their appetite and weight.

Dr. Sebastian P. Gross of the University of Iowa reported he had used an injection of adrenalin to make rats eat and drink much more than normal. Using other chemicals known to block the animals' own adrenalin, he "managed to curb the appetites of hungry rats."

Chemicals may be all right in their place, but has Dr. Gross considered the usefulness of the power of suggestion? The story of Pavlov's dogs — and how they salivated, finally, at the sound of a bell even when not accompanied by food — is known to all laboratory psychologists.

And that brings up the story of the two cockroaches. In a dark corner of the kitchen a cockroach was munching happily away on a bit of last Friday's fish or something equally odorous, when another cockroach came running up.

"Something awful is happening," gasped the courier. "The housewife is going around the house with a mop and scrub brush. Can't you smell the soapsuds?"

The first cockroach choked, then carefully laid down his tidbit and turned to the other one. "Please!" he said severely. "Not while I'm eating!"

This is not to suggest that people who want to reduce must have their appetite taken away in any such brutal manner through the sense of smell. But must they take drugs to do the job?

There can be little doubt but a strong investigation into anti-Communism in the United States Senate is developing. The General Walker Case will not down and either the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee or a public Court-Martial is essential to clean it up. Secretary of Defense McNamara's defense of the removal of General Walker from his post was insufficient because it avoided the central issue which is that pro-Communists are beginning to move about freely again.

It is interesting that the leader in the present battle against the pro-Communists is Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. Senator Karl Mundt has joined but that is to have been expected because he has been active in anti-Communist movements since he has been in the Congress.

The General Walker Case is arousing interest because he has been accused of a crime which is not recognizable as such. The accusation is that his Pro-Blue Program of patriotic indoctrination was excessive. It is impossible to define excessive patriotism. It is almost impossible to understand why he should have been accused of impropriety without being given a public hearing. By avoiding a public hearing, the Defense Department has got itself into an untenable position. An organization, "The Friends of General Walker," has come into being which is circulating publication, mimeographed and printed, on the subject. Although generally, the press has not paid too much attention to the General Walker Case, the pamphleteers have been busy and they note the silence in the press.

It is experience that the suppression of a story can build it up to explosive proportions. This seems to be best pointed up in Senator Mundt's weekly report. Mundt is a Republican; Thurmond is a Democrat. Nevertheless, Mundt uses Thurmond as his authority when he says:

"In the August 17th discussion on the Senate floor concerning the memorandum submitted by Senator Fulbright to the Defense Department and the subsequent directive aimed at stopping anti-Communist seminars, Senator Strom Thurmond said: 'I think our people in uniform generally should not speak promiscuously on all subjects, but they are entitled to tell the civilian population the aims, the methods of operation, and the dangers of the enemy. The enemy today is Communism. I feel there is a censorship now being placed upon our military people with regard to expressing themselves concerning our enemy, Communism.'"

Senator Mundt attacks the censorship of public speeches by military men:

"Thus, the full impact of the recent Pentagon directive is now being felt. The 'muzzling of the military,' first appearing as an 'innocent' attempt to 'stop-war talk' by such distinguished military leaders as Admiral Arleigh Burke, becomes an all-out attack to discredit highly successful anti-Communist seminars and to eliminate any reference to the menace of Communism because it is interpreted as being of a 'political' nature."

This is the beginning of a movement and those who ignore it do not understand the strength and depth of popular movements. It is easy to ridicule the John Birch Society, but it is not easy to justify the removal of General Walker from his post in Germany on the grounds of excessive patriotism.

The excuse can be that the balance between the United States and Soviet Russia, between war and peace, is so fine that only the most elevated civilian officials should speak on policy matters. That would be President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. But we listen to others on lower levels discuss policy questions and they are not muzzled.

There seems to be a misunderstanding of roles and responsibilities. If no one but the President and the Secretary of State are to speak on policy, then let everybody else be silent. It is doubtful if the country would long tolerate such one-sided silence.

General Walker is an incident in a general policy that has always heretofore failed, namely the effort to muzzle public men and the press. Such an effort always fails in this country because there are always intrepid spirits who will tell the truth as they see it. Ridiculed, abused, socially ostracized, they go ahead and the truth comes out. Such journalists as Charles Edward Russell, Lincoln Steffens, Ida Tarbell, Upton Sinclair, to go back a generation or two, were of that calibre and they broke through any conspiracy to keep the truth from the people. And they had a tough time because the truth is often such a nuisance.

Our Ineffective Missile

Two Kinds Of Life In Western Capitals

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Two quite different kinds of life are being lived, at this moment, in this city and the other Western capitals. One kind is the ordinary life of the immense majority, a life still only slightly worry-flecked by the morning papers.

The other kind is the life of the tiny minority of policy-makers directly concerned with the management of the Berlin crisis. These men have been living in the recurring shadow of immediate war-danger ever since August 23. And it is high time for this unpleasant fact to be understood by the rest of us, who belong to the majority.

The moment when the chilling shadow first was felt can be precisely specified, because August 23 was the date of the first Kremlin note hinting at possible interference with the air-access routes to Berlin.

It can now be stated, on excellent authority, that the men of the inner group in the U.S. government at first rather strongly inclined to the view that this Soviet note actually foreshadowed an attempt to sever the civilian air transport line which links Berlin with the rest of the world. Such an attempt would have met with an immediate military response — after which anything might have happened.

For this very reason, the first reply to the Soviet note was the President's grim personal warning to Nikita S. Khrushchev. The method of an individual statement by the President was chosen, precisely because it was thought that it might be tricky to take the time that is always needed to prepare an agreed response by all the Western Allies.

There are some reasons to believe that this analysis was correct. Apparently the Soviets seriously hoped that they could get away with an attack on the civilian air routes, because on August 13, they already had got away with walling off East Berlin from West Berlin. But if this is correct, the President's statement gave Khrushchev and Company food for time-consuming reflection. And the Kennedy statement was then followed by the almost equally forceful joint response of all the Western Allies on August 26.

In those four or five days after August 23, the shadow of war-danger was very strong and very chilling. It recurred again, with the delivery of the second Soviet note of September 2, more directly questioning the status of the air routes to Berlin. Again, it was strongly felt for some days—at least until the delivery of last week's firm though overly legalistic Western answer. And the truth is, alas, that the shadow, though less heavy at the moment, has by no means vanished as yet.

Those who doubt this description of the climate in the inner group of American policy-makers should read the remarkable speech delivered to the U. S. Army Association last Thursday, by one of the leading members of the inner group, Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul H. Nitze. This speech, even sterner than Secretary of State Dean Rusk's subsequent message on the same theme, con-

Khrushchev Listens To Suggestions For Cooperation With Kennedy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON —A good many times during the course of our several talks by the Black Sea, Premier Khrushchev indicated that he liked President Kennedy, but felt Kennedy was trying to frighten him. "He's a man you can disagree with and still like," he said. "But he wanted to frighten us and he frightened himself instead."

In discussing the many problems Kennedy faced both on the domestic front and the international front, I emphasized several times the fact that he had been elected by a narrow majority and that this obviously worried him.

Khrushchev then told me about some of his own political problems after Stalin died.

"Molotov was the big man at that time," he said. "I didn't rate. But while he was a good, honest revolutionary, he didn't understand human nature. I argued that the Russian people weren't interested in philosophy. They were interested in better homes and better food."

Khrushchev then told how Molotov had forced a showdown vote in high party councils — the famous vote later well publicized in Western newspapers.

"The first vote," said Khrushchev, "was close. But I went ahead with the policy of better housing and developing the new lands, and today I would win overwhelmingly."

"So it can be with Kennedy," he continued. "No matter how narrow his margin, he was elected. And if he brings peace to the world, he will have the overwhelming support of the American people. No one will ever be able to defeat him."

"At present he looks to the right to see how this person feels, and to the left to see how that person feels. Let him look straight ahead and go about the business of carrying out the promises he made the country — such as 'new starts for peace.'"

Need For Trust

A good many times our conversation came round to the restoration of the Camp David spirit between the USA and USSR. I pointed out that the chief problem between the United States and the Soviet was one of trust, that you had to have inspection for disarmament and nuclear testing because there was no confidence on the part of either side. Khrushchev argued that once Berlin was settled the Camp David spirit could be restored. I argued that Berlin would be fairly easy to settle if the Camp David spirit was restored first.

It was at this point that Khrushchev said: "What would you suggest?"

I asked a little time to think it over, and next morning at breakfast made this suggestion:

"Most people have forgotten that the United States and the Soviet Union have had some very successful cooperation. For instance, we have a treaty together for the protection of Pribilof seals in the Bering Sea, and Oscar Chapman, the former Secretary of the Interior, tells me that the Russian government has been scrupulously careful in carrying out the terms of this treaty."

"Incidentally," I added, "the treaty calls for inspection, though the inspection of animals, not weapons."

"Then we have an Antarctic Treaty together which does call for inspection regarding nuclear tests, without any reservation whatsoever. And during the geographical year American and Russian personnel worked together very closely. The American commander told me that he even invited the Russians to take over one American base and man it."

"Yes, we did a fine job together in the Antarctic," agreed Khrushchev. "I am familiar with it."

USA-USSR Should Cooperate

"Then in the prevention of opium smuggling," I continued, "Harry Anslinger, our Commissioner of Narcotics, tells me that he gets his best support from the Russians. The United States and the Soviet work together in preventing opium smuggling and the Russians even proposed him as chairman of the International Commission."

"What I suggest is that we emphasize some of these points of agreement and cooperation rather than our differences. We have had so many charges and counter-charges that passions have become inflamed. Let's try to figure out the areas where we can agree, and concentrate on them for a change."

Mr. Khrushchev listened carefully and several times nodded agreement. However, I am neither a good salesman nor a diplomat, and I didn't know how to put in a final sales clincher. Also we were a little late and had to leave right after breakfast.

I suggested to one of his cabinet members later that either Mr. Khrushchev write a letter to President Kennedy along these lines or Kennedy write one to him suggesting joint emphasis on the constructive rather than the negative. However, I did not make this suggestion direct to Khrushchev.

I did tell him that I had seen a TV documentary of American sailors being blown up by Nazi submarines while trying to carry wartime supplies to Russia, and asked him if he would show the film on Soviet television.

He gave a one-word reply: "Certainly."

Mr. Pearson and I departed immediately after breakfast. As we said good-bye, Khrushchev said: "Tell President Kennedy that if the United States and the Soviet Union stand together no country in the world can ever make war."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

No one believes the story of the teeth. Telling it again won't help. But it happened. My father stopped in one evening and asked my mother-in-law Maggy if she would like an evening out. My mother was going to a shower and it left Big John with little to do.

He liked Maggy. So he took her to dinner. It required a little time and work to get her into whatever medieval harness she wore. Maggy was exactly 5 feet tall and weighed 190. By the time she got into the silk print dress with the lavender flowers and the hem of the slip had been yanked up on one side with a knot in the shoulder strap, Maggy was in a mad sweat.

She wore her brown hair parted in the middle with two big dips over the temples. She was a loud, hearty woman who loved good food and a highball. Big John took her to the Banjo Bar in Hackensack and they sat in a booth discussing life's sorrows.

The sadder it got, the more frequently my father flagged the waiter. Big John was a huge man with snowy hair. He's a good talker and a good listener. Maggy was giving him a rundown on how grand life was when her Frank was alive. He had known Frank Dunning at Lodge 211, Elks Club and the two of them laughed and almost wept, and called the waiter for another round.

Maggy was peering at him through her glasses. He was a pink and white blur. She bought her glasses off a counter in the five-and-ten. They were great, she maintained, but sometimes she used them and, as an additional optical crutch, a magnifying glass. Maggy wasn't cheap. She was the best poverty-stricken sport I ever met.

She always put a five dollar bill on the bar and it was always her last. She didn't drink often, but, when she drank, she liked to be serious about it. This is one of the things Big John admired about her.

The glasses came off, and she squinted at my father through a hanging tear in the left eye. He told her a funny story and they got to laughing and couldn't stop. She reached across the booth and gave him a slap on the shoulder that almost drove him out of the booth.

They ordered dinner and agreed that the roast beef was delicious. Maggy moved onto an ear of corn and her bridge came out standing in the kernels. This struck them funny and they laughed some more and called the waiter for another cool transfusion.

Maggy put the teeth in her purse. There were three of them, with bits of wire curling off both sides. They were upper front and they too looked as though they came off a counter in the five-and-ten. The heck with appearances, Maggy said, a girl has to relax and enjoy herself.

Big John agreed and sent for a second piece of apple pie. After awhile, Maggy said that her shoe-button Irish nose must be shiny, and to please excuse her. She was in the powder room ten minutes and, when she came out, she looked worried.

"John," she said, "I think I lost the d— teeth." He looked up out of his happy mist. "What teeth?" he said. She seemed on the verge of tears. "The little front bridge. I think it went down the drain."

"Ah," he said, waving an arm, "forget it. I'll get them for you in the morning." Maggy was brought home toothless that night. When she breathed, the upper lip flapped. Her shame was so deep that she remained in bed all the next day.

However, Big John was never a man to forget a promise. He went back to the Banjo Bar and spoke to the German who owned the place. "The stout lady who was with me last night lost her teeth," he said, displaying the shield of a lieutenant of police.

"This is an honest place," the German said. "No one would steal a lady's teeth, lieutenant." Dad put his knuckles on his hips. "I didn't say anybody stole the teeth," he said. "She lost them, in the rest room. Those teeth happened to cost $1,000. You don't want to be sued for a thing like that."

"Sued?" the owner said. "I didn't do anything wrong. Why would I—?"

"Be a good boy," John said. "Get the teeth."

By afternoon, a plumber and his helper were taking the drains apart. By evening, they were digging in the yard. They found the teeth. Big John thanked the man, who kept looking at the three choppers and mumbling: "How much did you say?" and Dad took them home and sterilized them.

My mother went into the kitchen, took a look in the boiling pot, and went back to sit beside my sister. "Don't say anything," she said. "He's in the kitchen boiling teeth. Don't say anything. Just keep quiet. This might be a breakthrough."

The Bugs Bunnies were sneaked back to Maggy by 11 p. m. Nothing was ever said about it. Later, Maggy said to me: "I should have met your father 40 years ago."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

REBUFFS AND OKAYS—President Kennedy has had an unusual time with the first session of Congress during his presidency. His relations with Capitol Hill have swung over a wide range in the course of seven months.

Kennedy came into office in the midst of a recession and received good cooperation from Congress on enactment of emergency measures to meet the economic downturn. Then he ran into Cuba and Laos, suffering a foreign policy setback in the eyes of the world. In this crisis, Congress rallied 'round and the President won cooperation on a number of domestic as well as foreign policy proposals.

As the session dragged on, Kennedy's fortunes waned as the Congress showed increasing signs of independence. Oddly, congressional support for the administration eased off as economic conditions improved.

The Berlin crisis that hit the world in mid-summer brought on a new and serious air on the Hill. Kennedy asked for billions of dollars and other powers to build up U. S. military strength—and he got everything he wanted.

But then, as the session neared its end, the President received the sharpest rebuff of his term in office from Congress. In a decisive vote, the House killed any aid to education measure for this year. On the very same day, House anti-administration forces mustered sufficient strength to force Kennedy to accept a compromise in his request for long-range commitments for foreign aid.

Administration officials now they'll try for these two "must" measures again next year—an election year for the House and a third of the Senate—and they believe they'll fare better then.

Prevention And Treatment Of Ingrown Toenails

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The ingrown toenail was misnamed. Dr. Felix Jansey says the term suggests a faulty nail that decided to grow or dig into the flesh, leading to pain and infection. Actually, the nail is normal and healthy.

The disorder should have been given an old fashioned Indian name such as Nail-Corner-Cut-Short or Flesh-Pushed-Up, according to Dr. Jansey. These terms are more descriptive of what happens and they are useful when considering prevention and treatment.

The most common cause is cutting the toenails to make them look like finger nails. A space remains at the edge when the corner of the nail is rounded out to make the curve. The space fills in with soft tissue that is pushed up whenever weight is borne on the involved toe. The flesh is crowded also by the shoe or the adjacent toe.

Meanwhile, the toenail continues to grow and in time the cut edge digs into the raised soft tissue. The nail is hard and irritates the flesh, leading to inflammation, swelling, and infection.

It is here that the second mistake occurs. The area is sore and the individual trims the nail to relieve pain. This aggravates the situation because permanent relief cannot be obtained until the nail grows over the exposed soft tissue.

In some instances, discomfort can be alleviated by inserting cotton under the nail until it has grown out completely. Soaking and ointments also ease discomfort. More often than not, surgery is required. The operation may involve excising the raised flesh or removing part of the entire nail. Cut the nails straight across to avoid this painful condition.

Leaflet on ingrown toenail will be sent if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

"I'd say," chuckled the scoffer, "go thou and do likewise."

No, but it can be controlled. You are a hyperreactor to stress and your blood pressure goes up whenever you are emotionally upset, tense, anxious, or excited, regardless of where you are or what you are doing. ## W. Va. Changes Regulations On Beer Taverns

Rules Liberalized
By Commissioners

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Beer Commission will put into effect next month new regulations designed to liberalize certain policies controlling actions of tavern operators and beer representatives.

However, the changes also will tighten other activities, such as sponsorship of athletic events by a beer distributor.

After Oct. 2, the Beer Commission approval will be needed before a distributor can contribute to the support of any baseball, football, bowling or other athletic team or contest.

Brewers, presently prohibited from backing professional athletic teams, will also have to get commission permission to support non-professional events.

Sales Limited To 'Home' Areas
The commission also had adopted a regulation requiring distributors to sell beer only in territories outlined by their brewers and detailed maps of assigned territories must be submitted to the commission.

Deputy Beer Commissioner Julius George said the "territory" regulation was adopted "to reduce possible friction among distributors and prevent possible overlapping of sales territories."

Another new regulation will permit a brewer or a beer distributor to buy a bottle of beer in a tavern just like anybody else. Strangely enough, this is prohibited under present rules.

George said it appeared "unreasonable" to prohibit such persons from buying a glass or a bottle of beer from a retailer.

OK To Hire Boys
Also, beer representatives or salesmen, under the new regulations, will be permitted to present retailers with gifts of "nominal value."

Other changes will allow grocers selling iced or warm beer to employ boys under 18 years of age and permit tavern keepers to double to 1,200 square inches the amount of advertising space devoted to each brand of beer.

George said that under the new 18-year-old regulation, grocers will be able to hire boys for stock or delivery work but not for dispensing beer.

Royal Dugan Wins Reynolds Memorial, Mr. J. N. Returns $39.20

Top Choices Take Beating Second Day

McKee Posts Double, Double Pays $113.80; Betting Up $6,535

Favorites took a beating for the second straight day at Fairgo yesterday when Joseph Nechamkin's Mr. J. N., a $39.20 for $2 shot, led the parade of outsiders and Edwin A. Simpson's Royal Dugan, coupled with Assertion as the entry in the 7th race, won the mile and a sixteenth Edgar H. "Buck" Reynolds Memorial Trophy before a gathering of 3,865 spectators.

Only two of the eight top choices won on the second day of the 12-day session and the total mutuel handle amounted to $127,526 which was $6,535 more than was wagered on opening day. Four favorites have won in the first 16 races staged to date at the local meeting.

McKee Has $39.20 Winner

Mr. J. N., with Charley McKee aboard, won the 6 1/4 furlongs 6th by a neck over the favored Prodan to return the highest price of the meeting—$39.20. Twin Lane Farm's Directami finished third in the $1,000 event. The win was the second of the day for McKee, who tied Victor Espinosa, of Mexico City, for first place in the jockeys' race, each having three firsts to his credit.

William J. Passmore was astride Royal Dugan, winner of the fifth running of the Reynolds Memorial. The four-year-old son of Royal Visitor covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:51 3/5 and New Line, the favorite, by a head to cop the major portion of the $1,500 purse for his owner. The winner returned $4.60 for $2. Third place went to Heliobubbe, owned by C. Lamar Creswell, Sr.

Trophy Goes To Winner

Roger Reynolds, son of the late Edgar Reynolds, former general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, presented a silver bowl to Clarence McCain, trainer of Royal Dugan, who accepted in behalf of Edwin A. Simpson, owner of the winner. Roger Reynolds is a state trooper with the Maryland State Police. His brother, Edgar Wonn Reynolds, is vice principal at Fort Hill High School. Favorites that finished in front yesterday were Both Ways in the fourth and Petiole in the fifth.

Charley McKee was astride B. Vincent Parchment's Both Ways, victor over Sag Cres by four lengths, and the winner paid $4.60 in the 6 1/4 furlongs test. Don't Feller, which paid $86.20 to win at Timonium, came in third.

Larry Posts First Win

Red Rose Stable's Petiole, with Larry Reynolds up, dashed home six lengths in the fore of Occu-Pet in the five furlongs fifth race and the $3.60 mutuel was the shortest price of meeting. This was the first win of the meeting for Reynolds, who set the pace here in 1958 with 25 winners.

Scores 2 Up Victory Over Titleholder

61st Championship Wide-Open Affair; Ward, Carr Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Deane Beman, the defending titleholder, was eliminated by Billy Joe Patton Tuesday and the 61st U.S. Amateur Golf Championship immediately became a wide-open affair.

Patton bounced Beman, 2-up, with three shots bringing the strangely solemn Morganton, N.C., ace "the victory I have enjoyed as much as any."

One of the blows was a 320-yard drive on the 10th that gave him the hole. The other two were scrambling chips that kept Beman, 23-year-old Arlington, Va., insurance man from staging a late rally.

Become Top Favorites

With Beman on the sidelines, Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City; Harvie Ward of San Francisco; Joe Carr of Ireland, and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, became top favorites for the crown no man has won two years in a row since Ward did the trick in 1955 and 1956. Coe also is a two-time winner, in 1949 and again in 1958.

Nicklaus was champion in 1959 and Carr is the three-time winner of the British Amateur title.

Two Rounds Today

Ward crushed Harlan Lane of Houston, 7 and 5; Coe stopped John Nichols of Downey, Calif., 5 and 4; Carr trounced Claude Wright of Englewood, Colo., 6 and 5, while Nicklaus, no better than even at nine, dumped Don Krieger of Portland, Ore., 4 and 3.

Two rounds Wednesday over the Pebble Beach course, whose 6,747 yards meander along the Pacific Ocean coastline, will cut the field to 16 players. Two more rounds on Thursday will set the stage of Friday's semifinals and Saturday's final, both over 36 holes.

Waivers Sought On Mike Hudock

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Titans of the American Football League Tuesday asked for waivers on Mike Hudock, injured center, and signed Proverb Jacobs, a 260-pound defensive tackle released by the New York Giants.

Six Indicted On Charge Of Rigging Cage Scores

Will Be Extradited To North Carolina Early As Possible

By ALAN D. RESCH

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—A Grand jury Tuesday indicted six New York men on charges they were involved in rigging the scores of North Carolina State College basketball games over a two year period.

District Solicitor (prosecutor) Lester V. Chalmers said the six, including an attorney will be extradited to North Carolina to stand trial "as early as possible." Warrants are to be sent to New York for their arrest.

Superior Court Judge C. W. Hall said he would issue bench warrants in the case Wednesday.

Bills of indictment drawn by District Solicitor (prosecutor) Lester V. Chalmers were considered along with testimony by former N.C. State players and other witnesses behind locked doors.

Chalmers' detailed bills named one N.C. State player not previously identified in the nationwide bribery scandals, the team's 1959-60 captain, Don Gallagher, a forward from Binghamton, N.Y.

The bills listed Gallagher, now stationed in Germany in the U.S. Army, as having received a $1,250 bribe to shave points in the N.C. State - Maryland game played Feb. 13, 1960. State won the game 48-46.

No Charges Filed

No charges were filed against Gallagher. Three N.C. State players had been named in warrants issued previously this summer in connection with the bribery cases. Chalmers' bill of indictment against New York gambler Joseph Green charged him with six counts of offering bribes and four counts of actual bribery. Conviction on all counts could result in jail sentences totaling as much as 60 years.

Others charged with two counts of conspiracy to offer a bribe, two counts of conspiracy to bribe and two counts of actual bribery were:

Charles Tucker, a New York attorney; David Budin, Michael Siegal, Lou Barshak and Bob Kraw, all of New York.

Conspiracy To Bribe

They were charged with conspiring to bribe Terry Litchfield, N.C. State center, in the N.C. State-Georgia Tech game played Dec. 7, 1960, conspiracy to bribe Litchfield, and actual bribery of Litchfield in the amount of $1,000. N.C. State won the game, 82-76.

Green was charged in the bills with offering a bribe of $1,250 each to former N.C. State captain and forward Stan Niewierowski and guard Antonio Muehlbauer in the N.C. State - North Carolina game Feb. 15, 1961. North Carolina won the game 62-56. Muehlbauer scored 21 points.

Salary terms were not disclosed but the new contract gave Scheffing a raise over the estimated $40,000 he got under his old contract.

Yankees Edge Chicago, 4-3

Howard Provides Hitting Power

CHICAGO (UPI)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle were held to one single each Tuesday night, but Elston Howard provided all the hitting power the pennant-bound New York Yankees needed to score a 4-3 rain-shortened victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The game was called in the bottom of the sixth when the Sox had the tying run on third base with two outs. A torrential downpour practically obscured the field and the umpires waited one hour and four minutes before handing the Yankees their 100th victory of the 1961 campaign. It was the Yanks 13th straight victory.

The Yankees made quick work of Sox starter Billy Pierce, who struck out the side in the only inning he worked, but not before he yielded three runs. Bobby Richardson singled, Maris walked and Howard sent them both in with a triple that eluded right-fielder Floyd Robinson, who fell and skidded through a puddle of water as he tried for a shoestring catch.

Howard scored minutes later on a single by Bill Skowron.

The Sox scored two unearned runs off the Yankees' Ralph Terry in the third on Tony Kube's error on an easy grounder.

The Yanks scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth on successive singles by Maris, Mantle and Howard. The Sox got their final run in the bottom of the fifth when Luis Aparicio hit his sixth homer of the year.

Terry, picked up the win, his 14th against only 2 losses.

Frank Lary Bags 20th

Tigers Ace Beats Kansas City, 3-1

DETROIT (UPI)—Righthander Frank Lary finally pocketed his 20th victory of the season Tuesday night with a 3-1 win over the Kansas City Athletics.

Lary, who had failed in three previous attempts to reach the milestone, went the distance for the 20th time this year while striking out three and walking none. He ran his season record to 20-9. It was Lary's second 20-game season of his eight - year major league career. In 1956 he won 21 games.

A crowd of 10,984 saw the Tigers support Lary with 11 hits in their first home appearance since a disastrous 1-9 road trip which knocked them out of the pennant race.

A two - run outburst in the eighth inning broke a 1-1 tie and sealed the victory for Lary. Bill Bruton led off with a triple, Rocky Colavito walked, Norm Cash drove in Bruton with a sacrifice fly and Steve Boros singled Colavito home.

Colts Sued For Song

Four Defendants Appear In Court

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts fought their first 1961 contest Tuesday, five days before the start of the National Football League season.

The Colts, operating as Baltimore Football Inc., and three other defendants appeared in U. S. District Court to answer charges they had infringed on the copyright of the team's fight song.

Jo Lombardi, a veteran music hall director, and the estate of Benjamin Klammer filed the suit. They contended the defendants used the song at games, for sportscasts and for commercial purposes, without first obtaining permission.

Lombardi testified that he and the late Klammer, an orchestra leader, combined to write the song in 1947 between vaudeville acts at the Hippodrome Theater here. The suit said the song was copyrighted in 1959.

At one point, Lombardi sang a few bars of the song, before pausing to explain that his 35 years in the music business had not improved his singing. Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, hearing the case without a jury, said he had heard enough.

The defendants, in addition to the football club, are the National Brewing Company, 1360 Broadcasting Company, and Ameche's Foods, Inc.

Two other defendants, Hearst Corporation and William Schluderg-T. J. Kurlde Company, were dismissed from the case when a settlement agreement was filed. The trial will continue Wednesday.

Retain Lopez

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox will remain with the club in the same capacity and will sign a new contract at the end of the current season, the Associated Press learned Tuesday.

It was understood that one of the incentives for Lopez to remain was the delegation to him of more authority on trades.

Picture Day Set Friday At Keyser

KEYSER—Coach Dana "Horse" Lough announced yesterday that Friday will be Picture Day for the Potomac State College football squad.

A professional photographer, a representative of the college and many amateurs will be present to take pictures. Anyone is welcome to come that day, at 4 p. m., take pictures and meet the squad.

Michael Meyers, a promising freshman end from Elkins, was lost to the squad last Thursday when he received a compound fracture of the leg in an automobile accident.

Potomac State opens its 1961 campaign at home against Bainbridge Naval Preparatory School Saturday at 2 p. m.

To Plan Schedule

CHICAGO (UPI)—Representatives of the 10 American League clubs meet here Wednesday to plan the 1962 league schedule.

Most club officials favor retention of the present 162 game schedule, although there is some support for a reduced season of 153 games.

Women Shufflers Play Six Matches

Rep. Mathias Reports On Legislation

Business, Civic Unit Hears Congressman

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. discussed some of the legislative accomplishments this year of the House of Representatives in the principal address at the 12th annual dinner meeting of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association last night at the Cumberland Country Club.

The Frederick County Republican discussed a visit which he and 37 other freshmen GOP Congressmen had Monday with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in Gettysburg, Pa.

"The commentary on the Civil War, World War II and the current crisis illustrate the depth and breadth of understanding of human affairs that have won him a place in the hearts of American people and esteem of the world," Rep. Mathias said.

There was a bipartisan touch about his talk because he referred to President John F. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy as "gracious and hospitable" occupants of the White House.

Discusses Legislation

One of the measures passed by the House which Rep. Mathias discussed was H.R. 10, a bill designed to encourage the establishment of voluntary pension plans by self-employed individuals. For tax purposes they can be classed as employers of themselves. They are not taxed on their contributions to retirement funds for their own benefit until they are enjoyed upon retirement. These benefits will be available to seven million self-employed persons.

Rep. Mathias also discussed amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act. A railroad worker may now retire at age 62 on reduced annuity. It reduces the time for the spouse to acquire eligibility from three years to one year. It also liberalizes widows' rights.

The 1961 amendments to the Small Business Administration Investment Act also were discussed by the Congressman from Maryland's Sixth Congressional District. One change encourages increased capitalization of Small Business Investment Corporations by raising the amount of capital SBA may invest in an SBIC on a 50-50 basis from $150,000 to $500,000.

$5 Million Limit

Another amendment fixes a $5 million limit on operating loans from SBA to an SBIC. A third amendment increases the amount of loans SBA authorized to make by $150 million.

Rep. Mathias also touched on the current Potomac River development survey which aims to project the needs of the basin through the year 2010. He stressed the advantages of the proposed $51 million dam on the Potomac some two miles above Bloomington.

The Congressman closed with two general observations. He expressed a hope that the government is not getting an anti-business bias. Finally, he expressed a hope that the government will get out of areas of private business.

"For Rural Electrification Administration co-ops to sell brand name electrical appliances at cost under the guise of stimulating need for power is nothing less than predatory," he asserted.

County Boards Of Maryland Meet Oct. 5, 6

All five members of the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday discussed plans to attend the fourth annual fall meeting of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education to be held October 5 and 6 at St. John's College in Annapolis.

Kenneth R. Malcolm of Westernport, who has been a member of the Allegany County Board of Education for more than 10 years, is president of the state association. Sterling McMurrin, United States commissioner of education, will deliver an address on "The Role Of The School Board Member" at the Thursday night banquet in conjunction with the state meeting.

"A Superintendent's View of the Role of a School Board Member" will be discussed at the Friday luncheon by Edward G. Stapleton, Baltimore County superintendent of schools.

The other four school board members here, J. Goodloe Jackson, T. Donald Shires, Mrs. Richard Winer and Mrs. George M. Young, have made reservations to attend the meeting as well as Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

School board members also were reminded yesterday of the Maryland Conference on Education planned for January 11 and 12 in Baltimore.

Garrett County Considers Planning, Zoning Proposal

Officials and interested citizens of Garrett County held a third meeting in a series Monday night to discuss plans for establishing a Planning and Zoning Commission.

Carl Schell, County Board of Commissioners president, presided at the session held in the Office of Employment Security at Oakland, and the mayor or his representative from each incorporated town participated.

Present to outline some of the problems, objectives and plans of procedure, was Albert Neike of York, Pa., representing the firm of Uchart and Horne, professional planning consultants.

Mr. Schell suggested that each of the county's incorporated towns should be represented on the commission. He suggested that the mayor and council in each town designate one of their members or a responsible citizen. This will make eight members. In addition, he proposed that the county commissioners add to the commission a representative of agriculture, one for recreation and one for industrial development. This would make a commission of 11 persons.

Mr. Schell said the need for economic development and for zoning regulations is becoming more evident all the time.

"If Garrett County is to progress and our people are to prosper, then we must begin planning constructively and develop the areas of agriculture, recreation and industry, along with zoning and other advancements needed to improve the community," he said.

Some of the towns are opposed to a planning and zoning commission and some appeared to be indifferent to the whole project. However, a majority of the towns are interested, Mr. Schell said, and he believes a decision will be reached shortly.

Incorporated towns in Garrett County include Accident, Deer Park, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn Heights, Mountain Lake Park and Oakland.

Mr. Schell noted that Garrett County is one of the largest in the state, with 668 square miles, six square miles of which is water.

Population trends show there will be marked increases in the future, he observed. With the recreation possibilities as well as agricultural development, he said, planning and zoning are becoming a "must".

Use of three school buildings was approved yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Education.

The United Lutheran Church Men of Allegany County received permission to present a concert by the Gettysburg College Choir in the Allegany High School auditorium next January 25.

Permission was granted to the Eckhart Street Light Association for use of the Eckhart School for activities in October and next May. The Valley Boosters Club was granted permission to use the Valley High School gym for a function Friday.

A request from the Hercules-ABL Judo Club to use the Allegany High School gym each Monday from 7 to 9 p. m. was referred to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster. The board approved in principle plans to allow the club use of school facilities so long as they do not interfere with the city recreation winter program.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt of Westernport submitted a letter of thanks to the board for construction of the new sidewalk along the McCool Road edge of the Westernport Elementary School property.

Contracts for 49 new teachers in the county public school system were approved by the school board. Twenty are teaching in elementary schools and the other 29 in high schools. All are college graduates with proper certification.

Tawes To Visit New Airport In Garrett County

Officials To Inspect Project Saturday

Gov. J. Millard Tawes and Attorney General Thomas B. Finan will visit the new Garrett County Airport at McHenry Saturday, inspect the work underway at the new facility and present a check to the county commissioners, representing the state's share of the costs.

Carl Schell, Kitzmiller, chairman of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, said a short program has been arranged. Mr. Schell will serve as master of ceremonies, presenting the guests and visitors.

Invited to attend are County Commissioners Elza Garlitz and Fred Glatfelter and other county officials, along with State Senator Bernard I. Gonder and Delegates Elza E. Bray, Elbert E. Buckel and Leslie E. Savage.

Also expected to attend are Rudolph A. Brennan, director of the State Aviation Commission, and Andrew Heubeck Jr., secretary to the Board of Public Works.

Gov. Tawes and his party will fly to Cumberland Municipal Airport Saturday morning, and will be picked up by a helicopter and flown to McHenry Airport for the ceremony and inspection.

The new airport is being constructed by George P. Hazelwood Company, Cumberland contractors. Mr. Schell said the work is ahead of schedule and the port is about 75 per cent completed. Plans are also being considered to plan a second stage of development. This is an emergency landing field. He noted that in present-day trends toward bigger planes, a longer runway has been recommended.

Mr. Schell said anyone interested in the airport and its progress is invited. The governor and his party are scheduled to arrive at 9:45 a. m. and to leave the new port at 11 a. m.

Huge Flag Marks Defenders Day In Baltimore

A man had to have pretty poor eyesight to say he could not see the American flag flying at historic Fort McHenry in Baltimore yesterday—Defenders Day. On Defenders Day each year, Fort McHenry's battle flag is flown. The flag measures 42 by 30 feet, weighs 75 to 80 pounds when dry and it takes 10 men to hoist the flag on its staff. This flag is six times as large as the 19 by 10-foot garrison flag flown at the fort daily.

The huge battle flag will fly again on Defenders Day in 1962 and 1963. It will get additional use on September 13 and 14, 1964, when a Star Spangled Banner sesquicentennial celebration will be held at the fort.

Vets Meet Tonight

Cumberland Barracks 1125, World War I Veterans, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the VFW home, Union Street.

Tri-Towns Exceed Blood Donor Quota

Residents of the Tri-Towns contributed 102 pints of blood yesterday during the visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile in Piedmont, W. Va.

Yesterday's total was 10 pints over the quota set for the visit, according to Mrs. Carleton Bell, Piedmont, chairman of arrangements.

Some 116 persons were scheduled to give blood, but only 71 kept their appointments. Yesterday's donors included 29 walkers and 11 first-time donors and 15 replacements.

Local College Progress Cited By President

School Board Receives Report

A first-hand report on preparations for the start of Allegany Community College was presented to the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday by Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the new institution which plans to open its doors September 25.

Dr. Zimmer expressed pleasure in being able to be a part in this new venture in education.

Some 76 applications for enrollment in the college had been received by yesterday and the president is looking for between 100 and 125 students by the time classes start.

Academically, they are a varied group, ranging from the top to the bottom of their high school graduation classes. Twenty-two per cent of them were in the top 25 per cent of their high school graduation classes.

About two-thirds of the applicants are interested in a liberal arts program but there also are sufficient applicants for both engineering and business administration. About 60 per cent of the applicants are men.

Dr. Zimmer spoke on the almost "miraculous" change in the appearance of the building at 340 Frederick Street as a result of the structural improvements made in the past six weeks. Library equipment should arrive over the weekend and bids will be received soon on laboratory equipment.

The college has or will have by the time classes start a registrar, librarian and full-time instructors in history, economics and English. Most evening school applicants seek classes in English, mathematics and French.

Among the applicants have been students from as far away as Oakland and Bedford, Pa., although most are from this county.

Dr. Zimmer noted that five young people who already had been accepted for enrollment at Frostburg State Teachers College came to his office Monday and applied for enrollment in the "pioneer" class of Allegany Community College. They all live in Cumberland and preferred not to have to commute to Frostburg.

South End Boy Hit By Automobile

A small South Cumberland boy was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted after being struck by a car.

The youngster, James C. Jones, eight, son of Mrs. Donna Jones, 117 Blaul Avenue, received abrasions of the body, a severe head laceration and possible other head injuries.

Officer Clarence D. Valentine investigated and said the youngster apparently ran into the path of a car operated by Rev. Walter J. Hamilton, 105 North Cedar Street.

No charges have been placed against the driver pending the outcome of the boy's injuries, police said.

The accident occurred about 5 p. m. on Blaul Avenue.

CWV Re-elects Kimberlin

Glenn E. Kimberlin was re-elected commander of Victor Tamboleo Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, at its meeting Friday evening at the post home.

Also re-elected were Joseph Chalmers, first vice commander; George Laing, second vice commander; Francis Fannon, adjutant; Peter Carpentier, judge advocate; Eugene Bertone, welfare officer; Noah Carder, officer of day, and Dr. Leo Ley, medical officer.

New officers elected are James C. Cunningham, third vice commander; Anthony W. McKenzie, treasurer; George Loar, historian; and all trustees, Charles Griffith, three years; Roger Pisaneschi, two years, and Nicholas Cantone, one year.

Twelve new members were accepted by the post.

Boosters To Meet

Beall High Boosters Association will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. at the school, with John Sullivan presiding.

Members of the Three-Gallon Club yesterday, and Lottie Walker, Keyser, joined the Two-Gallon Club.

Five persons became members of the One-Gallon Club. They included William Pratt, James Rafter, Allan Miller and Donald Devore, all of Westernport, and Paul Cueva, Luke.

Community College Takes Steps To Accreditation

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series concerning Allegany Community College and its objectives.)

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Is the Allegany Community College an accredited institution of higher learning?

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the new college at 340 Frederick Street which will open its doors for the first time September 25, explained that accreditation of a college is not an automatic function. It takes time. The nine-page booklet which constituted the preliminary announcement concerning the new college here stated that it is expected that the college will be accredited by the Maryland State Department of Education and that the college will be authorized by the State Board of Education to award the degree of Associate in Arts. It also is the intention that credits earned at the college will be fully transferable to other colleges and universities.

Last month, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, wrote Ralph R. Webster, county superintendent of schools, that he is giving his approval to the plan for operation of the community college here.

Has Full State Backing
Dr. Pullen wrote that his certification concerning the college here should be stated in the following words:

"This is to certify that the plan of operation of the Allegany Community College of Cumberland, Md., has been developed in cooperation with the Maryland State Department of Education. The implementation of the program outlined in this catalog when operative in facilities approved by the State Department of Education qualifies the institution for approval by the Maryland State Superintendent of Schools."

This accreditation by the State Department of Education will allow the Allegany Community College to be listed with other institutions and will allow for an interchange of credits. Courses taken here will be accepted by other similarly rated institutions elsewhere in the country.

Accreditation Takes Time
Dr. Zimmer also emphasized that the college hopes to gain accreditation by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Universities. However, this cannot be done until three to five years have passed.

The college must have graduated its first class and these graduates must have been accepted in other institutions before accreditation by the Middle States Association can become a reality.

A number of factors are evaluated in accreditation. These include the faculty, the teaching facilities, library, laboratories, student personnel services and teaching aids.

Dr. Zimmer explained that this evaluation begins with self-study by the faculty here. The staff and faculty will analyze the objectives of the college, its strengths and weaknesses.

The college president added that accreditation actually results from a positive answer to this one question: "Are you doing what you set out to do?"

Under the new arrangement worked out yesterday, Queen City will get 40.25 per cent, Potomac Farms 21.25 per cent, Mason's 19.85 per cent and Dashiell's 18.65 per cent.

During the past school year, Mr. Webster told the board, Queen City had 38.9 per cent of the business, Potomac Farms 19.9 per cent, Mason's 18.5 per cent, Dashiell's 17.3 per cent and Barton's 5.4 per cent.

Queen City Co-operative Dairy Inc. has informed the school superintendent that it expected to add Barton's share of the county school milk business to its own. However, representatives of Potomac Farms Dairy and Mason's Dairy complained that they should be entitled to a larger share of the school milk business.

The school board decision adds 1.35 per cent of the total school milk business to Queen City's, Potomac Farms, Mason's and the Dashiell Dairy.

Beer Tax Hike Bill Loses Half Of Its Sponsors

Wilson Protests Plan At Hearing

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three of the six legislators who sponsored a bill to raise the tax on beer and wine withdrew their immediate support from the measure Tuesday night.

Dels. Charles H. Smelser, D-Frederick; William M. Houck, D-Frederick, and Thomas R. O'Farrell, D-Carroll, said they had backed the bill in the 1961 General Assembly as an alternate to adjustments in the sales and cigarette taxes, both eventually enacted.

"In my opinion, this is not needed now," Smelser told a Legislative Council committee hearing.

The bill would increase beer taxes from 3 to 8 cents a gallon and wine taxes from 20 to 35 cents a gallon. It reportedly would raise $3.3 million a year to be distributed to local governments.

It was referred to the Council's Budget and Finance Committee after being voted down in the House of Delegates in the final hours of the 1961 session.

Two sponsors still supporting the bill before the committee were Dels. Elroy G. Boyer, D-Kent, and Charles M. Moore, D-Harford. The third sponsor, Del. Joseph H. McElwee, D-Washington, was not present.

The committee deferred action on the proposal.

Heavy Burden
A leading spokesman against the bill was William L. Wilson, president of the Queen City Brewing Co. of Cumberland. Speaking for the seven Maryland breweries, Wilson said "beer is presently carrying as heavy a tax as can be imposed without severe economic repercussions to an industry which means much to Maryland."

Wilson said Maryland's brewing industry "is far from being in a healthy condition" and that 1961 production would be at 60 per cent of capacity.

He said Maryland's beer tax rate of 93 cents a barrel compares favorably with other leading beer producing states.

But a leading spokesman for the bill, Moore, said Maryland's beer tax is among the three lowest in all the states.

"Immunity" Alleged
His co-sponsor, Boyer, said if the state needs revenue it should come from a commodity "that can stand an increase and has been immune since 1932."

Smelser also claimed beer has gone "Scot free over the years."

He said he might still sponsor the bill if it would increase the sales tax base—lowered to 25 cents last session—and be levied on the producer.

Houck also said he would oppose the bill unless it would repeal the cigarette and sales tax increases, and O'Farrell echoed this sentiment.

Opponents, who outnumbered supporters about 20-to-1 in the packed hearing room, claimed the proposed tax would single out beer consumers for "another sales tax."

Wilson, the brewery spokesman, said lowering the sales tax base has increased the cost of nearly every bottle of beer. Answering a committee question, he said the tax probably would be passed on to consumers at the rate of about a penny a bottle.

The president of a Cumberland union spoke against the bill on behalf of some 2,500 Maryland brewery workers.

Says State Would Lose
Speaking for tavern owners was M. A. Rappaport, president of the Maryland State Licensed Beverages Association. He said an increase in beer prices would lead to a decrease in consumption—Maryland now ranks fourth in the country—and the state would lose money in the long run.

Sponsor Moore emphasized the bill was not introduced as an anti-administration measure or to "get Mr. Hocker."

The bill had been termed the "Hocker rocker," referring to George H. Hocker, a close adviser of Gov. Tawes. Hocker heads Associated Brewers Inc., an industry public relations group.

Spokesmen for the State Association of County Commissioners supported the bill on grounds the subdivisions need the money. But Wilson pointed out the Allegany County Commissioners have opposed it.
